RUSS RED ARMY STARVES; SPREAD REVOLT-TROTSKY

War Lord Of Russia In Plea For Rebellion In Other Nations

FAMINE SWEEPS LAND

Peasants Are Ordered To Deliver Foodstuffs For Famished Soldiers

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 5.—Further confirmation of the seriousness of affairs in Russia is provided by the admissions of Lenin and Trotsky writing in the newspaper, Pravda.

Lenin declares that Moscow and other large cities are paralysed by famine and even the army is becoming famished. He insists that it is necessary to use every means to enforce the peasants to deliver food-stuffs, while Trotsky states: "We want to see rebellions in other countries to render attacks upon us impossible. The Red Army is in dire need of food, boots and clothing and, if they are not forthcoming immediately, all our efforts will be futile."

SITUATION CRITICAL

Meanwhile the military situation in South Russia has become critical owing to the release of the Red forces from the Polish frontier and their concentration against General Wrangel who, foreseeing events, is retiring to the Crimea. His retirement has been practically completed but the future of the campaign may depend upon whether his forces have suffered serious losses during their withdrawal which is at present obscure.

London, November 4.—Mr. Winston Churchill, in the course of a speech here today, reviewed the world-wide activities of the Bolsheviki. He declared that events in Russia must run their course and no one could help at present but, he added:

"We must recognise the dangers of Bolshevism in Great Britain for every city contains small bands of people, eager for any chance to make a general overturn in the hope of profiting themselves in the general confusion."

SEES COLLUSION

Mr. Churchill suggested that there was a connection between all the revolutionary attempts which were being made in India, Egypt, Ireland and Great Britain. It looked as if a dead-set was being made against the Empire.

Why did the Egyptian Extremists give money to the Daily Herald: why did Lenin send money: why was money sent to Sinn Fein? Mr. Churchill asked.

It was known that intense efforts were being made to disrupt India and that similar efforts were being made to cause dislocation of trade here in the hopes of creating unemployment and consequently suffering and discontent.

It was increasingly clear, Mr. Churchill concluded, that all these factions were acting in consort. There was developing a world-wide conspiracy against this country but it would not succeed if we were constantly vigilant.

LENIN DENOUNCED

London, November 5.—The Executive Committee of the Second Internationale today held a meeting in London under the chairmanship of Mr. Arthur Henderson, M. P. As the outcome of the meeting a manifesto has been issued which is remarkable for its furious denunication of the Third Internationale formed by Lenin. It shows clearly that organised Labor in Europe is extremely hostile to the tenets of Bolshevism, "which," says the manifesto, "means violence and war, while Socialism means peace."

MILNER LAUDS EGYPTIANS

London, November 5.—In view of Lord Milner's speech in the House of Lords yesterday, in the course of which he stated that there was no reason to suppose that the Egyptian Nationalists were generally hostile to Great Britain or that the attainment of their aspirations was necessarily inconsistent with the safe-guarding of British interests in Egypt, the Egyptian delegation will probably postpone its departure from London in anticipation of a fresh conference with Lord Milner.

Zaghlul Pasha, the head of the Egyptian delegation, stated that the speech had produced a very good impression. He paid a tribute to Lord Milner's ability and sympathy and said that he was endeavoring to build the Empire not by force but by friendly means. In spite of difficulties and misunderstandings, Zaghlul Pasha added, he had not abandoned hope of an agreement, which all Egyptian patriots desired. He declared that the granting of independence to Egypt would be a permanent line of friendship between Great Britain and Egypt.

Armistice Day To Be Solemnly Celebrated In London And Paris

Unknown Warrior's Burial Is To Be Attended By Impressive Ceremonials In Which High Officials Will Participate

(Rerter's Service)

London, Nov. 7.—The Armistice Day this year will have even more solemn moments than it had last year. The symbolic burials in London and Paris of anonymous heroes in national resting-places as a tribute to unknown valor has made an unusually strong appeal to popular sentiment. The personal participation of the King in the London ceremony will add historic interest to the occasion.

Seven thousand relatives of fallen warriors have been chosen by ballot and are being invited to witness the ceremony of the unveiling of the cenotaph in Whitehall or to attend the service at Westminster Abbey.

HONOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Places for 100 representatives of the three fighting services and also of the principal ex-service men's organisations, blinded soldiers and nurses, have been reserved. The former will be V. C.s or those who otherwise distinguished themselves in the war.

When the body of the "unknown warrior" starts on its final journey, Field-Marshals will salute and twenty-one guns will be fired in Hyde Park.

The pall-bearers will be officers of the highest rank in the fighting services. They include Admirals Earl Beatty, Sir Hedworth Menx, Sir Henry Jackson, Sir Doveton Sturdee, Sir Charles Madden; Field-Marshals Earl French, Earl Haig, Lord Methuen, Sir Henry Wilson; Generals Horne, Lord Byng; and Air-Marshal Sir Hugh Tranchard.

CABINET MINISTERS INVITED

Forty Cabinet Ministers who have held office since 1914 will be among the distinguished company attending the King at the cenotaph.

A two minutes' silence with complete suspension of all business, work and locomotion will follow the unveiling of the cenotaph on the last stroke of eleven from Big Ben.

The Union Jack covering the grave of the "unknown warrior" has been used for various purposes in France and Belgium.

A feature of the Paris ceremony which has been planned on a no less impressive scale will be the carrying of the "unknown soldier" along the whole line of the old front from where the battle of the Marne was fought to the Bois-de-Boulogne.

The coffin will then be handed over to the Pantheon authorities to the sound of trumpets and drums amid uplifted swords.

American Mission Falls Into Hands Of Soviet

Terrorism In Moscow And Slaughter Of Hundreds In City Reported

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Moscow, Nov. 7.—A wireless message from a soviet station states: "We captured the American mission headed by General Morel when we defeated Wrangel at Alexavaka."

London, November 6.—An American mission to Southern Russia has fallen into the hands of the Bolsheviks, according to a Moscow newspaper.

Washington, November 5.—Contrary to reports appearing in the Moscow newspapers, that an American mission in the Southern part of Russia has fallen into the hands of the soviets, the State and War departments stated that they had no knowledge of any official American mission falling into Soviet hands. A report from Pravda said that General Morel was the head of the mission.

(Reuter's Service)

Stockholm, November 6.—If reports which are reaching Helsingfors are to be believed, the situation in Moscow is apparently very serious. The prisons are crowded with revolutionaries, who have been arrested for participation in a frustrated plot.

Artillery is stationed in the streets and a state of terror exists. Between two and three hundred revolutionaries are being shot every night. But, nevertheless, the revolutionary movement remains uncrushed. All efforts to root out the headquarters and the leaders of the plot have been unsuccessful.

Far Eastern Nation Short-Lived, Belief In Northern States

(Rerter's Service)

Vladivostok, November 6.—A Chita telegram states that the local Assembly has passed a resolution to withhold definite action regarding the new Far Eastern Government, pending the arrival of the Vladivostok delegates.

The Select Hotel at Chita where the members of the Far Eastern Government, all the delegates to the Far Eastern Conference and the Partisans' Staff are quartered caught fire and parts of the building were burnt to the ground.

The Vladivostok Government has forbidden the publication of the decree issued at Chita announcing the formation of the new Far Eastern Government.

Dissatisfaction with the results of the Chita Conference is widespread. It is generally believed that the new Far Eastern Government will be short-lived.

Stabalised Freight Rates On Seas Are Needed, Says Benson

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Washington, November 5.—An international agreement to stabilise the Ocean freight rates is rapidly becoming necessary.

Admiral Benson, chairman of the Shipping Board committee, announced that shipping board officials believed that all leading maritime nations should accept some sort of proposal to eliminate the "Cut Throat" methods of world trade through rate conference agreement.

Shaw Case Is Still Under Negotiation

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Mukden, Nov. 6.—Mr. Shaw was released on Wednesday last. It is understood that the case is still subject to diplomatic negotiations at Tokio but it appears doubtful whether the Japanese will proceed further with the case.

Keep The Kaiser, You're Welcome To That Job!

—Premier Lloyd George

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 4.—With regard to the non-fulfilment of the promise to bring the ex-Kaiser to justice, Mr. Lloyd George, replying to a correspondent, explained that twice the Allies had notified the Netherlands Government, demanding the extradition of the ex-Kaiser, and emphasising the very pressing need of compliance both from the national and international point of view, and the Netherlands Government had twice refused, insisting that it was their right and duty to give him asylum.

Consequently the surrender of the ex-Kaiser by diplomatic means was unsecurable.

The Premier pointed out that, when the promise was given, it was not contemplated to proceed to the extremity of war with Holland.

"The responsibility now rests with the Netherlands Government," Mr. Lloyd George concluded, "for the permanent safe custody of the ex-Kaiser and no greater or more enduring punishment could be imposed than the action of the Allies has secured."

MORE CHARGES BY ASSEMBLYMAN AFTER EXCHANGE

Author Of Motion In Kiangsu Assembly Brands Denials As Misleading

ISSUES STATEMENT

Alleges 60,000 Shares Of Chinese Exchange Are Now In Hands Of Japanese

In reply to the denial made by Mr. Li Kco-fang of the allegations made in a motion by Assemblyman Huang Shen-shih of the Kiangsu Provincial Assembly to close the Chinese Chartered Produce and Stock Exchange, Mr. Huang yesterday addressed a communication to THE CHINA PRESS, alleging that the denials made by Mr. Li failed to answer any of his seven charges. Mr. Huang branded Mr. Li's denials as "valueless" and "misleading."

The contents of his letter follow:

"As far as I know, the permit for operation for the Chartered Produce and Stock Exchange has not yet been issued by the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce. Mr. Li should have stated the exact date when Mr. Li Yin-shu is coming to Shanghai with the license. It is most important that after Mr. Li's arrival, pictures of the license should be published in the local newspapers in order to dispel the suspicion of the public.

LICENSE DELAYED

"I wish to point out also that my allegation in the motion was that the exchange did not have a licence at the time of its inauguration. Mr Li's statement that the license is on its way to Shanghai after the exchange had been in operation for three solid months at once proves that my accusation was made on good grounds.

"The first exchange to apply for a permit was the Hua Shan Stock Exchange. The application is on file with the Ministry.

"Mr. Li had no alternative but to admit that the operation of the exchange without having 50 per cent of its capital paid up is unlawful but he attributed this to a special concession made by the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce. The Ministry can not decree what the law does not permit. It can not grant an unlawful concession.

"It is quite true that the exchange has no power to stop the shareholders from selling their own shares, but why does the exchange advertise its own shares within the premises of the exchange as well as through market reports in the press? There is no doubt that it attempts to invite the public to buy and sell its shares. This act is unlawful.

DEPOSIT OF FUNDS

"The provision in the regulations governing exchanges is that the exchange shall deposit a third of its capital with a government bank before it applies for a permit. It is not within the province of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce to designate any particular bank.

"The press has been full of reports of the transactions done by the officers of the exchange. If they are incorrect, why did not the management deny them?

"The point in my motion was that it was unlawful for the brokers to transact business before procuring their licenses. Mr. Li stated that the brokers' licenses are on their way to Shanghai. This at least proves that the licenses are not yet in the possession of the brokers, who are not yet legally authorised to transact business.

JAPANESE MONEY

"The press has often recorded cases of suicide and bankruptcy as a result of transactions carried on by the exchange. The exchange, however, has not maintained that these reports are incorrect.

"The amalgamation of the exchange with the Japanese firm, the Chun Hua Chio Kaisha, has been recorded by the press. No denial of this has been made by the exchange. In my motion, I stated that on account of the amalgamation, 60,000 shares of the exchange's shares had fallen into the hands of foreigners. I did not state that foreigners had actually entered into the partnership:

"Mr. Li was anxious to refute this allegation by pointing out the filing of the list of shareholders. We all know that any list of shareholders can be made up to suit the purpose of the exchange."

CHINA TO ACT ON MILITARY PACT REPORT

Peking Expected To Take Steps For Its Abrogation Says Message

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Nov. 7.—The Government has received a telegram from Sun Yat-sen, Tang Shao-yi, Wu Ting-fang, Tang Chi-yao, and Liu Hsien-shih, stating that they do not object to the unification of North and South, but they regard the procedure outlined by the Government as not clear.

They make the following suggestions:

(1) The holding of a Peace Conference prior to the final declaration of unity.

(2) The cancellation of the Sino-Japanese pact.

(3) The discussion of legal problems by the Peace Conference.

(4) Full publicity for all secret treaties and agreements.

It is understood that the Government will take a definite step in regard to the military pact this week.

The Tuchun of Kwangsi has informed the Government that the autonomy of Kwangsi was formally cancelled yesterday.

General Pao Kwei-ching recommends the appointment of a Garrison Commisioner at Hungchun, and suggests that General Liu Wen-hsen is the most suitable person for this position.

BOULON HEARING IS RESUMED IN AMERICAN COURT

Assistant Treasurer Of G. W. W. Is Still Under Cross Examination

MAY BE FINISHED TODAY

Prosecution Probably Will Be Brought To End At This Afternoon's Session

Precedent and local custom went overboard and sank without trace yesterday in the American Consular Court, for while all the rest of Shanghai went to the races the embezzlement hearing of Mr. Frederick G. Boulon, erstwhile manager of the Shanghai branch of Gaston, Williams and Wigmore, was carried through another session before U.S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl.

It is expected that the prosecution will close its case today, as the hearing is to be resumed at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon and this may bring the hearing to a conclusion in the event that the defense is withheld. The former manager of the company is facing nine counts of an information charging defalcations that aggregate about Tls. 25,000, said to have been committed in the period from June, 1919 to May 1 of this year.

WHAT IS WANTED.

In the course of the highly technical testimony given through the afternoon yesterday by the one witness called, Mr. H. Beeson, assistant treasurer of the complainant company, Commissioner Schuhl, with a view of expediting matters, outlined the purpose of the hearing. What the Court wanted to know, he said, concerning the various exchange contracts on which the charges are based is for whom these contracts were made and who got the profits from them.

Civil War In Ireland Claims New Victims And Causes Reprisals

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 4.—Further extensive reprisals are reported from Ireland and also a new ambush at Ballinard, County Limerick, in which three policemen were wounded. There has been extensive wreckage at Tralee during the past two nights where notice was given threatening reprisals of a nature not yet heard of if two missing policemen did not return. Subsequently their dead bodies were recovered.

Following on the shooting of a district inspector, eleven lorries of uniformed men visited Granard, County Longford and set fire to the market house and a hotel and also a block of buildings, valued at £70,000, which were entirely destroyed.

CHECKING REPRISALS

London, November 5.—In the House of Commons today, in the course of the debate on Mr. T. P. O'Connor's motion for the adjournment to discuss the Irish situation, Mr. J. H. Thomas, Derby, read an affidavit by Barry, the medical student who was executed at Dublin on November 1, declaring that the latter had been threatened with torture because he refused to furnish the names of his comrades.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, pointed out that the legal phraseology of the affidavit suggested that it had not been made by Barry, but had been prepared for him.

The matter had been inquired into, and he (Sir Hamar) accepted the denials of the officers concerned. Dealing with reprisals, he declared that nine constables were under arrest, two of them on a charge of murder.

INQUIRY UNDER WAY

The Commander-in-Chief had inquired into every case brought against troops, and ten cases of disciplinary action had been taken, while seven men were being tried in connection with the destruction of property at Mallow.

Nevertheless, said Sir Hamar, all the tears ought not to be shed for the sufferers who were championed by Mr. Thomas; some should be left for the gallant men who had deserved well of their country during the war, and were being murdered daily while carrying on their duties. He denied that there was any Government imprimatur on the reprisals against innocent people.

The police and military, he said, possessed lists of officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Republican Army, and when an assassination occurred the houses belonging to these people in the neighborhood were searched.

DISCREDITS WRITER

Dealing with the complaints made by Mr. Hugh Martin, the Daily News correspondent in Ireland, who alleged that he had been threatened by the police, the Chief Secretary said he did not believe that Mr. Martin was in the slightest danger.

It was a common thing in Ireland to pretend to be in danger, and thus to become a hero. Mr. Martin was as safe in Ireland as he would be in Fleet Street. Any pressman would be welcomed in Ireland, no matter what his views might be.

The way out of the present situation could not be found, he declared, until the murder gang ceased murdering. He did not believe that the House or country would make peace until the murders were stopped.

The Irish people welcomed the increasing energy of the soldiers and police in stamping out murders. It was the Government's duty to defeat this merciless attempt to intimidate them into giving Ireland independence.

STOP CAMPAIGN OF MURDER

Thanks to the police and military, the Government was defeating it. If they failed, the policy of assassination would spread to England, because as soon as it was found to be a successful method of political propaganda, people would be encouraged to adopt it. The best way to bring about a stoppage of reprisals was to stop the campaign of murders. When the latter ceased, the reprisals would automatically cease. Then the time would come for a way out for the Irish people which the House would gladly welcome.

The quarrel, he concluded, was not between the English and the Irish people, but was in Ireland itself. He hoped that everyone would unite in helping Ireland to settle her own troubles and stamp out assassination, which was the one bar to a progressive and happy settlement.

Mr. O'Connor's motion was defeated by 133 votes to 51.

AMERICAN SAILOR HELD FOR MURDER; GIRL IS VICTIM

Jack Welch, Young Engineer, Faces Charge Following Shooting On Sunday

Jack Leo Welch, aged 25, an American citizen and second assistant engineer of the steamer West Henshaw, is under arrest by the United States authorities and will be held for trial in the United States Court for China for murder following the shooting of a Chinese girl in a brothel on Fearon Road early Sunday morning. Two shipmates who were with Welch on the night in question will be detained to give evidence.

Information reached the police at 8 a.m. Detective Inspector Reeves testified at the inquest begun before Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Yui yesterday that a woman had been shot in a house on Yalu Road. He went to the house in company with Inspector Mackenzie and as they were passing along Miller Road a Chinese woman handed them a 32 calibre automatic pistol and stated that it belonged to a foreigner who was in the house. Going inside they found the woman lying on the floor of a small room on the first floor. She was bleeding from the abdomen and back and died about two hours after being sent to St. Luke's hospital.

The accused was sitting upon a bed in the room. He seemed to be in a dazed condition and kept repeating the words, "You will be all right, kid." When questioned he declared the shooting to have been accidental and that the gun had been under the pillow.

The inquest was postponed until 11:30 a.m. today. Major C. P. Holcomb was present on behalf of the U.S. authorities.

PUT HARDING IN CHAIR AT ONCE, URGES W. J. BRYAN

Commoner Would Have Wilson Hand In Resignation

FRANCE PLEASED

Continentals Predict Better Feeling As Election Result

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Mr. William Jennings Bryan, ex-Secretary of State, has issued a statement suggesting that President Wilson should resign immediately and turn over his office to Vice-President Marshal on condition that on the convening of Congress in December, Vice-President Marshal should appoint Senator Harding Secretary of State, and himself resign.

The law would then make Senator Harding President and with the support of the Republicans in Congress he could put into operation his plan for the United States to enter an Association of Nations for Peace.

FRANCE IS PLEASED

Paris, Nov. 4.—The newspapers express satisfaction at the election of Senator Harding, stating that his sympathy with France is well-known.

New York, Nov. 3 (delayed).—Senator Harding's majorities are surprisingly large. He has taken every State on the eastern seaboard north of the Mason and Dixon line, together with the whole tier of Middle-Western States, and he has even made gains in New York and Pennsylvania and the Democratic South.

In Massachusetts, Illinois and Connecticut he has been returned by overwhelming majorities, these in the first-two of these States showing nearly a million votes each.

BOSTON GOES REPUBLICAN

The city of Boston voted Republican for the second time in its history. New York, while strongly Republican on national issues, voted as strongly Democrat in the fight for the governorship, Governor Smith's legislation to prevent the eviction of tenants who are unwilling to pay higher rents having gained him a tremendous local vote.

Washington, Nov. 3 (delayed).—Commenting on the election returns, Mr. Joseph P. Tumulty, the President's Secretary, recalled that President Wilson once remarked that "he would rather be defeated in a cause that would some day triumph than triumph in a cause that would some day be defeated."

Paris, Nov. 6.—Senator Harding is reported in a New York message as declaring that while he was opposed to the League of Nations in its present form, he would, as soon as the new United States Government were in power, ask the nations, in the interests of justice to join in an association which would not require any of America's liberties to be abandoned.

BRYAN BLAMES WILSON

New York, Nov. 4.—Mr. W. J. Bryan has issued a statement blaming President Wilson and Governor Cox for the Democratic defeat. He denounces President Wilson for attempting to drive out of public life those Democrats who differed from him in opinion and also for preventing the ratification of the League of Nations by rejecting the reservations.

Mr. Bryan declares that Governor Cox misrepresented the position of the Republicans on the League issue, which was the paramount issue in the campaign.

He concludes with a forecast that universal disarmament will be one of the conditions on which the United States will attempt to advise.

PRESS COMMENT

New York, Nov. 4 (delayed).—Press comment on the elections is generally on party lines. The Democratic New York Evening Post argues plausibly that Senator Harding's majority is composed of "the most opposing elements of discontent in the population of the United States."

Berlin, Nov. 4.—German press comment on Senator Harding's election is distinguished by caution in estimating its bearing on Germany's future and satisfaction at the decisive defeat of President Wilson's policy.

Paris, Nov. 4.—The newspapers express the opinion that Senator Harding's election will end the uncertainty with regard to Amer-tion's attitude which as clogged the affairs of Europe. They declare that the League of Nations has received a blow as far as its unrealities are concerned.

New York, November 6.—According to a Washington despatch, final election returns give the Republicans 293 seats in Congress, the Democrats 138 and the Socialists, Independent Prohibitionists and Independent Republicans one seat each.

STARTS FOR TEXAS

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Marion, November 5.—Starting aboard his special train for a one month vacation to Texas and Panama, Senator Harding laid aside the last signs of his campaign for an extended rest and recreation although he had already been at work upon preliminary details of the first administration policy plan for the new Association of Nations.

Senator Harding does not propose to let the task interfere with his outing, but has asked several leading statesmen to prepare their views on the subject, although his first conference to receive advice will not take place until he returns to Marion on December 6.

It was also made known that the compilation of opinions on the Association of Nations proposal will be the first concern in preparing for responsibility. He will render no consideration to cabinet appointments while on vacation.

IMMENSE G. O. P. LEAD

Washington, November 5.—According to the latest returns Senator Harding has received 404 electoral votes. Completion of senatorial contests indicate that the next senate will be composed of 59 Republicans and 37 Democrats.

The Republicans anxiously await the belated returns from the remaining eight contests in six states so that they can fix the Republican House majority.

Exclusive of contests the Republicans had 287 seats while the Democrats claimed 137 and are certain of four others. The Republican plurality of 150 is the greatest ever held by any House party and the nearest to the 52nd congress when Democrats had a plurality of 148.

WILL BURY HATCHET

Washington, November 6.—Senator Harriman, chairman of the Democratic campaign speakers bureau, said the Democrats would bury all differences and forget about the campaign, and that the Democratic party is not dead, but only received a temporary setback.

Governor Cox made a gallant fight and the Democratic party still continue to look upon him as a leader. I have no criticism of Democrats who failed to help when the going was hard and wanted to see a complete harmony.

COX AGAINST SABBOTAGE

Aboard special train, November 6.—Crowds rivaling those present at Republican campaign speeches greeted Senator Harding while en route to Texas.

Harding stepped on the platforms of a dozen cities of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and in addressing the cheering men, women, and children declared that he intended to forget all about campaign partisanship and be the peoples President, always devoting time to the interests of the whole nation.

Columbus, November 5.—Governor Cox in his first statement since the election said that he is as proud as when fight started and believed that democracy would not attempt appolitical sabotage.

Obituary

ERNEST ROCHFORD HOOPER

Final tribute was paid yesterday to the memory of Mr. Ernest Rochford Hooper, who has been known to the Shanghai sporting world as "Trooper" Hooper, and whose funeral took place at Bubbling Well cemetery. Mr. Hooper was formerly with the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank and subsequently engaged in a brokerage business. His widow, who is a daughter of Captain Wallace, and two daughters are now in England. Mr. Hooper died Friday at the age of 42.

The service yesterday was conducted by Very Rev. Dean C. J. F. Symons and the pallbearers were: Messrs. W. R. Lemarchand, R. M. Dalgliesh, D. Mennie, D. W. Crawford, C. H. Potts, H. D. Hilliard, E. T. Barnes and L. R. Andrews.

Life and the cost of living get more inextricably mixed every day, causing crime and indigestion to flourish to a degree where morticians have assumed a jaunty air and jailers curse and clamor for a shorter day.

Kwei Ling-tsen combats the climbing figures of the price of existence column in a humble way by operating a "potato boat" and daily cruises into the Settlement with a cargo of freshly dug tubers which are then retailed to the ultimate user direct, the burglarious middleman being entirely ignored Yet, even such an altruistic avocation as Kwei's is apparently not exempt from discouragements.

Kwei was loudly proclaiming the benefits of potato diet to pedestrians on the Lay Road Creek embankment the day before yesterday—so he told the Mixed Court Magistrate—when a number of men came aboard the ship and desired to be shown samples of his best wares. They expressed admiration for the quality and had him weigh out forty-two pounds which they said they would buy. The spokesman of the crowd then handed Kwei 5 coppers and wished him a very good night. Kwei allowed that this was very droll of the spokesman, but said he was not feeling very facetious that evening and would his customers please pay over the balance of the amount and take their potatoes away, and he hoped they enjoy them and benefit by them immensely. The spokesman said he was not joking and to lend weight to his contention, selected one of the heftiest items of his forty-two pound selection and hove it with a fiendish accuracy at Kwei's eye. Things then became extremely involved, with a detail of the visiting contingent providing active entertainment for Kwei's entire staff and the remainder beginning to pile the boat's cargo ashore.

The arrival of a Chinese Police Constable brought the festivities to an abrupt close, with one of the pseudo-marketers, Yang Ahsz, left in the clutches of the skipper.

Yang protested that he was being wrongfully accused. He had seen about a dozen men fighting each other on the boat, he said, and being a Quaker by nature he had gone aboard to try and arrange an armistice.

Yang will enjoy two months of unruffled peace.

APOLLO CROWDED ON OPENING NIGHT OF JIGGS MOVIES

With lots of eclat, or whatever it is that's suitable on such occasions, Mr. and Mrs. Jiggs and daughter, Norah, made their debut in movies locally last night.

At any rate there was a distinct and emphatic "pleased-to-meet-you" air about that part of the community which attended the reception. And, despite the dampish weather and the fatigue and abstraction incident to an evening after the first day of a Fall race meet, there was a large and animated portion of the community present.

The Apollo, where Mr. Jiggs and family are at home in Shanghai, was, as said, well filled, and if the attitude of the fillers is any indication, it will be filled again tonight, and a popular center of assembly as long, or as often, as these enlivening visitors are among us.

Evidently there were many among the audience seeing the new Pathe fun films last night who follow the social distractions of the Jiggses in the daily columns of THE CHINA PRESS.

"Don't he look natural?" quoth they, particularly whenever "he" and Maggie arrived at one of those delightful little domestic incidents for which the Jiggs family is famous and Jiggs was taking census on his scattered faculties. Maggie was also there to the life, and Nora as ornamental as Mr. McManus depicts her.

The name of the first "Bringing up Father" film to be shown here is "Jiggs and the Social Lion." To describe it further—well, it shouldn't be necessary to describe it further—it's Jiggs, and his family and the lion, and you can't beat such a combination.

Peking's Thanksgiving Ball Will Be For Famine Relief; Raise $530,000 Here

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, November 8.—Plans are being made to accommodate 3,000 at an immense famine relief ball to be held under the patronage of Mr. Charles R. Ask The Squirrel whether Oak is hard—he knows!

To appreciate to the full the value of Oak for flooring and panelling, it is necessary to know the conditions under which the tree itself comes to maturity.

It is the rule with trees that the faster they grow the poorer the quality of the timber they yield, and vice versa. The Oak is one of the slowest trees to grow, and is consequently the producer of the hardest and most valuable timber. The Oak is not found so much in the sheltered valleys, but on the bleak uplands, where from infancy it is exposed to the vicissitudes of wind and weather.

WE SUPPLY OAK FLOORING AND PLANKS FOR WAINSCOTING, ETC., KILN-DRIED AND GUARANTEED PRIME QUALITY.

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing, and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

OVER 5,000 HEAR SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS SUNDAY

Party Leaves For South After Holding Two-day Conference in Shanghai

An unusual service was rendered the Chinese churches of the city on Sunday by the members of the Sunday School party which spent the week-end in Shanghai. A total of 19 different addresses were given in churches and schools during the day. This made a profound impression on the Christians of the City.

Fully 5,000 persons heard these speakers, who came with a freshness and impact such as never before been felt in the city. Most of them naturally referred more or less to Sunday School work, and all the workers in this form of church activity received many suggestions and much help from their experienced visitors. The party left last night on the Kitano Maru for Japan and Europe.

WORK IN CHINA

Yesterday was spent by the visitors in shopping and sightseeing. At 11:30, Dr. F. Brown, of the World's Sunday School Committee, met with the executive committee of the China Sunday School Union, to consider important business relating to the growing work in China.

In the evening the party dined at the Astor House. Mr. W. G. Landes, secretary for the party, was in the chair.

Dr. A. P. Parker, chairman of the China Sunday School Union and one of the oldest missionary residents in China, gave a hearty welcome to the visitors, and wished them god-speed at their depart.

Rev. E. C. Lobenstine, secretary of the China Continuation Committee, spoke briefly concerning the missionary cause in China. He pointed out that a great unifying force was at once in China by the very fact that missionaries from different countries came constantly into contact with each other and their work, and out of these contacts there is coming a new consciousness of what is most essential in Christianity—of what lies under the differences of nationality and denomination.

ACTIVITIES EXPLAINED

Mr. J. H. Geldart, secretary of church and student work of the Y.M.C.A. spoke about the need for developing the churches in such cities as Shanghai, and the broader program of activities, which will enlist laymen.

Mr. E. G. Tewksbury then presented Dr. Brown a fine Chinese flag, as a memento of this his fourth visit to China. Another gift, also from the Chinese Sunday School workers to Dr. Brown, was the first bound volumes of the four Gospels in the new phonetic script. These were hurriedly bound today especially for this presentation, and represented the great effort which missionaries and others are now making to decrease illiteracy and give the bible to the people.

Dr. Brawn in thanking the givers, stated that the flag would be placed in the World's Sunday School headquarters in New York, where he hoped all present would come to see it. The four gospels will be used frequently to illustrate the present effort in China.

The party then broke up and speeded to their tender at the Customs Jetty, from which they left at 9 o'clock for the Kitano Maru, going south. The expect to visit India, where many small conferences on Sunday School work will be held.

Dr. Brown is remaining a few days longer in Shanghai.

California Law Is Upheld By Nations

NO. SIX

(U. S. Naval Radio)

San Francisco, November 7.—The local newspapers, commenting on the possible effect of the anti-alien land law, unite in declaring that Japan will never go to war over its passage. The press declares that Japan will not go any further than protesting for the simple reason that foreigners in Japan, Canada or England are not allowed such land-owning privileges as enjoyed by Japanese in California before the passage of the anti-alien land statute on November 2.

England, Japan's supposed ally, and Australia have both placed in effect a law similar to that passed in California, the newspapers remark.

The local press anticipates diplomatic interchanges between Washington and Tokio concerning the bill but expresses the opinion that Japan will be content with representations to the State Department.

Accused of interfering with speeches delivered by Governor Stephens, who is aiding the recruiting campaign for men to enlist as the crew of the new superdreadnaught California, Japanese have made vigorous denials.

Discovery Of Oil Reported In Chihli

Chang Chung-feng, a merchant, has submitted a petition to the Ministries of Interior and Agriculture and Commerce to the effect that oil fields covering some 20 square li around Hsiaokushan and Tachioling, to the West of Peking have been discovered.

The oil is said to be there in considerable quantity, and he informs these Ministries that he is forming a company for the exploitation of this industry, at the same time requesting the necessary permission.

This discovery is of considerable interest if true, but foreigners who should know, doubt it very much.

Germans Short In Breadstuff; Must Import 2,000,000 Tons

Berlin, Sept. 18.—Two million tons of breadstuffs must be imported by Germany, chiefly from America, as the 1920 crop will be considerably short of the country's requirements, says an announcement by the President of the Imperial Grain Department.

He points out that the prospect, so far as cereal stocks is concerned, is gloomy. The rye crop has been a disappointment and this year's harvest of breadstuffs is calculated to yield only 7,000,000 tons, while land devoted to breadstuff production has diminished more than 7 percent.

Washington, November 5.—While the State Department have not made any protest to the tripartite agreement between France, Britain and Italy defining their spheres of interest in Turkey, officials stated that they did not mean that no objections could be made against any provision and viewed as contravening the open door policy in Turkey as the United States insisted upon the open door in Turkish settlement when France asked President Wilson his views last March.

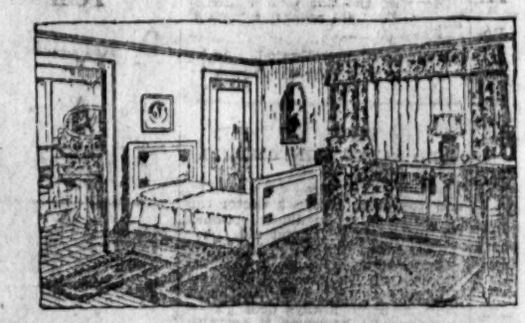
When the Days Are Getting Shorter



—paint will save your lighting bill as well as your spirit. A well-painted house looks brighter; a greater amount of light is reflected back from the walls, ceiling and furniture. It looks more cheerful, especially when the dark days of the winter tend to make the atmosphere gloomy and "blue."

Besides the walls and ceilings which should be bright and beautiful, there are many other odds and ends about the house which can be brightened up. There's the cracked piece of furniture, the marred, scuffed floor, the old bedstead, the hand-soiled stair-rails, the grey foot-stepped stairs, the dull-looking kitchen cabinet—all ready for a refinish.

CREWS CALLED FOR U.S. NAVY

Full Complements For Ships Now Laid Up Are Expected By Next March

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Washington, November 5.—According to advises from the Navy department the recruiting in the Navy is progressing so satisfactory that the officials believe, that in the near future, it will be possible to send to sea a large number of vessels that are carried on paper as a part of the fleets, but are actually tied up to docks in Navy yards with an insufficient crew. Recruits are pouring into the Naval service at a rate of 2,300 per week, and on November first the service lacked only 28,000 of its authorised strength of 143,000.

It is believed that the full strength will be recruited by March 1, 1921. Eighteen battleships with the Atlantic and Pacific fleets doing cruising duty and four others are operating with a reduced crew, and thirteen older types are out of commission, 65 of 243 modern destroyers are in full commission; 25 are outfitting for overseas service; 130 are laid up with reduced crews, and 38 others are out of commission.

The Navy department explained that they had no expectation of placing full crews aboard all destroyers in time of peace and that in case of emergency a superabundance of 50 percent can be obtained for fleet duty, otherwise the reduced crews are sufficient to keep ready for emergency.

The Naval reserves can be depended upon providing they have had some previous training on destroyers and battleships.

There are no modern submarines out of commission. Thirty-six older types are lacking full crews on account of the difficulties experienced in training men due to peculiar technical duties. Thirty-one of fifty-five Eagle boats are fully manned. Twenty-six cruisers and gunboats are in full commission and 24 cruisers are laid up with reduced crews.

The increase in pay and the announcement of the extended cruising of the Pacific and Atlantic fleets has served well to stimulate enlistments.

Legislator Against Cruises Of Fleets

Washington, November 5.—Representative Blanton published an open letter to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels protesting against the announced cruises of the Atlantic fleet to South America and Africa, and the Pacific fleet to Australia and New Zealand next Summer.

Wilson Refuses To Pardon Eugene Debs

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Washington, November 5.—It is understood that President Wilson has no intention of pardoning Mr. Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist nominee for President, who is now serving a ten year sentence in the Atlanta penitentiary for viciation of the espionage act, at present.

Mr. Wilson said that his view is that clemency in such a case will set bad precedence, and may encourage others to oppose government in the event of another war.

ALBA'S WEDDING TO BE SPLENDID

British Royalty, Spanish High Nobility And Eminent Diplomats Will Attend

London, September 25.—The wedding of the Duke of Alba to the young and beautiful Marchioness of San Vicenta del Barco at the Spanish Embassy here will be a brilliant social function, although ex-Empress Eugenie, the Duke's aunt, died not so long ago. British royalty will be represented, for the Duke of Alba is directly descended from King James II. of England and the sister of the great Duke of Marlborough. Certainly some one very close to the King of Spain will be delegated to act for him vicariously. Indeed it is not impossible that the King himself may honor the occasion, for Alba is a great favorite with him and his spouse, Queen Victoria. Besides, there will be a gathering of Spanish grandees and Hidalgos and of members of the Diplomatic Corps.

The marriage will unite two very noble families. The Duke is forty-two years old; his intended wife scarcely half that age. Besides being lovely and accomplished the bride-to-be is a great heiress. She is the granddaughter of the fifteenth Duke of Higur and the daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Allaga, but her fortune comes to her through her maternal grandmother, the Duchess of Montelerne.

The ceremony was fixed originally for St. James's Church Spanish Place, but if the strike of the coal miners should be on, as they threaten, it might be difficult to illuminate the church. So it will take place in the comparative privacy of the Spanish Embassy.

"KING'S CROSS" WINS ST. LEGER AND BREAKS A TRACK RECORD

BIG CROWD BRAVES WEATHER AND SEES SPLENDID OPENING OF AUTUMN RACE MEETING

Record Fields, Thrilling Finishes, High-Class Exhibitions By Both Riders And Ponies Feature First Day Of Classic At Shanghai Course

By "Grandstand"

Old Sol fought a desperate battle with Jupiter Pluvius and the King of Darkness at the opening of the Autumn Meeting, Shanghai Race Club, yesterday afternoon. While Sol lost to Erebus in the end, he managed to hold both of his opponents at bay long enough for nine highly exciting races—including the classic St. Leger—to be run off, much to the enjoyment of a large and representative throng of race-lovers.

Speaking more plainly, rain clouds persistently hovered over the Race Course throughout the afternoon, occasionally precipitating a few annoying drops upon the crowd and chasing the prettily-gowned feminines under the shelters. The day became more and more dour and dark until it finally became necessary to postpone the running of the last race of the afternoon until this morning at 11:15 o'clock.

Despite the untoward weather conditions the opening day of the Autumn Meet brought forth some of the best contests between well-matched China ponies which have been witnessed in Shanghai in many a long moon. Big fields of starters were the rule, rather than the exception; while almost invariably the finishes were of the hair-raising order, with the results in doubt until the numbers flashed on the boards.

Two dead heats for first place and one for third; the establishment of a new track record for the St. Leger, even on a well-dampened turf; and the defeat of at least two "sure things" were among the features of the day. The favorites, both among ponies and riders, fared badly rather than otherwise, and the "Celestial Dope" (as Grantland Rice is wont to designate advance information) was blown into atoms on two or three occasions.

TWELVE IN ST. LEGER

Twelve splendidly-conditioned ponies faced the starters in the classic Shanghai St. Leger, with Messrs. Winsome and Hasty's speed-burning marvel, The Curlew, standing mountain-high in the estimation of the betting public. Sir Ellis Kadoorie's splendid pony Hongkong Chief, was second in favor; with Messrs. Potts and Hayin's grey, Allied King, and Mr. Morriss's gallant Setchfield shared third place in the popularity contest around the pari-mutuel tables.

But it was not any one of these which came home the winner. Instead, King's Cross, a handsome dun-colored "whizzer" recently acquired by Messrs. C. and H. White from Tientsin, where he had run well in the Spring, dashed from the ruck at the head of the stretch; and, splendidly ridden by Mr. Dalgleish down the center of the course, crashed home a winner—and a record-breaker—by one and one-half lengths over Hongkong Chief, also well ridden by Mr. Heard, who took second away from Mr. Hill, on The Curlew, by a scant half-length.

Following this startling win it is understood that King's Cross is now a strong favorite for the Champions Sweepstake, displacing The Curlew by virtue of his time-annihilating performance yesterday afternoon.

THE FIRST DEAD HEAT

The first of the dead heats of the afternoon came in the running of the Royal Navy Cup and Subscription Griffins Stake (fifth race), and was desperately contested by Mr. Isaac Ezra, on Toeg and Lalcaca's dun pony Nyanza, and Mr. S. B. M Bremner, astride Mr. Elkayems' dun, Dunluce.

The ponies and riders fought it out in thrilling fashion all the way down the stretch, after having beaten off the early challenges of the favorite, Messrs. Sparke and Tibbey's dun, Wild Plunge, and twenty-four other entrants.

The run-off of the heat, which followed the St. Leger, resulted in another thrilling neck-and-neck scamper on the part of the two dun-colored ponies, Mr. Bremner finally nosing his mount across the line a short head in front of Mr. Ezra's grimn, what proved to be the last stake of the day. As a result of it, Mrs. Isabel Moller's stout chestnut pony, Safetylight, will race with Mr. William McBain's roan, Struma, sometime this afternoon for the right of eligibility to "The Champions."

The two ponies, as far as could be seen from the stands, were nicely raced along by Messrs. Moller and Vida respectively, and should provide a dash of added excitement when they meet again today.

Messrs. Dalgleish and Bremner took the riding honors of the afternoon, although Mr. Hill gave fine exhibitions on The Hero and The Eagle, especially when he urged the latter home for a head victory over Silver Streak in the Autumn Cup race, with Tichfield and seventeen other gallant ponies tight on their heels.

Mr. Dalgleish scored a particularly impressive victory on Mr. Robson's grey, Niblick, in the opening race of the day; while Mr. Hill's ride on the Heron was worthy of especial mention.

THE CUP REPRESENTATIONS

Society was out en masse by the time the entrants for the St. Leger filed through the paddock gate; and a truly handsome throng was on hand around the members' stand when the time came for Vice Admiral Sir Alexander Duff, K.C.B., to present the British Navy Cup to the winner, Mr. Elkayem, who was heartily cheered as were Mr. Bremner, who rode the plucky pony, and Mr. Ezra, who had the mount on the loser.

Rear Admiral George H. Borrett was on hand to present the Autumn Cup to the winners, Messrs. Winsome and Hasty, and another hearty cheer thereupon went up for these popular owners, with a Tiger for Mr. Hill and The Eagle, winners of the event.

EARLY START TODAY

Owing to the large fields, the running off of the dead-heat for the British Navy Cup, and early darkness owing to the misty and drizzly weather, the Stewards of this meeting eventually decided that the 10th race yesterday, the first Race Day, is to take place as the first race today. The races will therefore commence at 11:15 a.m. sharp today, instead of at 11:30 a.m. The following ponies have been declared as starters in the Kaigan Plate (10th race, first day):

Sweepstake Sales Promise To Break Existing Records

Something like 21,000 tickets have already been sold for the Champions Sweepstake and it is estimated that fully 5,000 more will be taken before the big race comes off next Wednesday afternoon.

This will break all existing records for interest in Shanghai's famous classic, and indicates that one of the largest crowds in history will be on hand to see the stout-hearted little ponies in their speed contest.

King's Cross, winner of the St. Leger yesterday, is now favored to scamper home ahead of the other starters in "The Champions," with the Curlew as second choice and The Eagle third.

LONG MATCH IN TENNIS TOURNEY AT FRENCH CLUB

Doubles Players Play 32 Games In One Set; Fine Exhibitions

Some excellent tennis was witnessed on the hard courts of the Cercle Sportif Franciase (French Club) yesterday afternoon, the occasion being the opening of a triple tourney under the auspices of that organisation.

What is probably a record for long sets during the season now drawing to a close, was made in men's doubles a match between Messrs. A. Gimson and F. J. Blyth, on the one hand, and Messrs. B. Khrenoff and A. Mancell, on the other.

These pairs, in the first set of their match, played 32 games before a decision was reached, the first-named pair eventually annexing the set at 17-15. They then took the second set and match by the less impressive score of 6-3.

J. Elmore and J. E. Hargraves, touted as the winners of the doubles, had no difficulty in disposing of the Messrs. J. A. S. Thomas and A. E. S. Thompson, 6-0, 6-1.

E. Norman and W. Butchart defeated A. Springborg and O. Hansen in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Mr. Elmore scored an easy victory over Mr. Thomas in the singles, taking his match in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1. Mr. C. L. Shih defeated A. H. Mancel, 6-2, 6-4, and J. E. Hargreaves won from A. F. Gimson, 6-8, 6-4, 6-3.

Fine Golf In Matches For Shanghai Championship; Ferrier Defeats Cumming

Kiangwan Contests Produce Good Scores Despite Unfavorable Conditions; Capt. Dewar, Title Holder, Loses To McEachran

By Arthur West

The first rounds of match play in the contest for the championship of the Shanghai Golf club produced some sound golf at the Kiangwan course Sunday despite a wind that interfered with good play in the fairways and a hardness of putting greens that caused approaches and putts to run strong and erratically. There were four matches, each for 36 holes, the contestants being the eight players who qualified in the elimination trials at medal play the previous week. The winners Sunday were Messrs. J. B. Ferrier, Lt. Col. R. Marr Johnson, J. S. McEachran and J. Oswald.

Mr. Ferrier defeated Mr. K. M. Cumming 5 and 4. Lieut.-Col. Marr Johnson won his match with Mr. G. A. Stewart 11 and 9. Mr. McEachran bested Capt. Dewar 4 and 5, and Mr. Oswald won from Mr. N. H. Bolton 6 and 5.

The match that promised most in the way of good play, based on past performances of the contestants, was the one between Mr. Ferrier and Mr. Cumming. Both of these players are holders of previous club championships, both in and out of Shanghai, and they are looked upon by the local golfing fraternity as being fully capable of holding their own with any of the wielders of golf sticks in the Orient. The outcome of their contest was awaited, therefore, with very keen interest.

FERRIER PROVES BEST

Mr. Ferrier proved himself superior in Sunday's play, and that his victory was decisive and well earned is indicated by the fact that at one stage of the match he was two down. To overcome this advantage and then finish a winner by the comfortable margin of 5 and 4 over a player of Mr. Cumming's skill is quite a feather in Mr. Ferrier's cap, as was attested by the hearty congratulations he received at the conclusion of the day's play.

Both players in this match, which may pardonably be described as the star attraction of the day, displayed a brand of golf that was sound for the most part, their mistakes being attributable largely to the wind, which at times was very strong and dusty, and to the baked surface of the course. But the wind was just as strong and the course just as hard for one as for the other, which makes it only fair to Mr. Ferrier to say that it was his steadiness which made it possible for him to win the match, and steadiness, after all, is the most reliable and useful club that any devotee of the ancient game can carry in his bag.

Mr. Ferrier was seldom off the course whereas his opponent found himself obliged quite frequently, particularly in the afternoon, to play his seconds from the rough or from such wide angles that he left himself approach putts of a length that his usually reliable putter could not negotiate. Mr. Ferrier, on the other hand, seldom had to try for the hole from the edge of a green and on some occasions, notably on the short sixth and the long thirteenth in the afternoon, he got down with a single tap.

MR. CUMMING'S "BAD JOSS"

It was at the short sixth hole in the afternoon that a combination of hard luck on his own tee shot and extremely brilliant putting on the part of his opponent that set Mr. Cumming back just after he had started a little rally that had won back one of the two holes that constituted Mr. Ferrier's advantage at tiffin time. On this hole Mr. Cumming's tee shot, striking on the extreme edge of the fairway, kicked out of bounds and the "kick," it seemed to the watchers, was almost at right angles. The next shot reached the green, as did Mr. Ferrier's but it was too late then, as Mr. Ferrier immediately demonstrated by sinking a twenty footer for a brilliant two.

This seemed to unnerve Mr. Cumming temporarily, for on the next hole he drove into a trap at the left and pitched out very weakly. Mr. Ferrier's tee shot, on the contrary, flew straight and true to the green and on a dead line to the pin, stopping some thirty feet beyond. Two putts for a fine three gave him the hole, as a five was the best Mr. Cumming could do.

On the short ninth Mr. Ferrier's steadiness again stood him in

By "Whistle"

Nanyang College footballers played the Chinese Rec eleven at Nanyang yesterday afternoon, the result being an exciting draw, 1-1. A crowd of nearly 3,000 witnessed the contest.

It was a splendid game throughout fast and clean. The teams were out for football and played the game making the task of the referee (Mr. A. H. Leslie) an extremely pleasant one.

The honors of the first half went to Nanyang, the College team meeting the interval with one goal in hand. On resumption the C. R. C.

HONGKONG DEFEATS SHANGHAI IN TRI-PORT CRICKET MATCH BY MARGIN OF 6 WICKETS

"Irrepressibles" Again Bat Without Fervor, Save By Ollerdessen, And Leave Easy Margin To Be Overcome By Colonists—Latter Play Singapore Today

By "Boundary"

By the healthy margin of six wickets in two innings of play, the Hongkong cricket eleven yesterday defeated the Shanghai "Irrepressibles" in the first of a series of Triport matches now being held in the Crown Colony, according to a despatch received through Reuter's Pacific Service last night.

The "Irrepressibles," who were all out for a total of 166 runs at the conclusion of their first innings on Saturday, were again weak at the bat, accounting for only 189 tallies, of which "Harryboy" Ollerdessen annexed 63, Clive Brook 33, and P. H. Cobb 24.

Hongkong, having scored a total of 279 on Saturday, needed only 80 more counters to annex the match. These they apparently secured in jig-time, Major Edwards accounting for 20, T. E. Pierce 17 and Mr. Hancock 16.

Major Edwards, the despatch states, sprained his ankle on Saturday and was out of the match during the early stages of yesterday's play; but reentered the game and evidently batted very creditably.

Especial mentoin is made in the despatch of the fielding of the Shanghai team.

SHANGHAI IDLE TODAY

Today and tomorrow the Hongkong team meets the Straits Settlement eleven in the second of the round-robin contests; while on Thursday and Friday the Malaysians will play against the "Irrepressibles." On Saturday "The Winners" will play a one-innings match against "The Rest," bringing the tournament to a close.

The Reuter's message reads as follows:

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, Nov. 8.—The interport cricket match between Hongkong and Shanghai was resumed today. The weather was fine and the ground was crowded with spectators.

Shanghai completed their 2nd innings for a score of 189 (H. B. Ollerdessen 63: C. Brook 33: P. H. Cobb 24). The best bowling performance for Hongkong was that of R. E. O. Bird, Shanghai's last three wickets giving him a hat-trick.

Major Edwards sprained his ankle on Saturday and was replaced in the field during the early stage of the game by A. E. Wood, but rejoined at noon.

Hongkong succeeded in getting the number of runs, required, for the loss of four wickets, thus winning by six wickets.

Hongkong 2nd innings, 79 for 4 wickets (Major Edwards 20: T. E. Pearce 17: Hancock 16).

Shanghai's fielding was excellent.

Sport Notes

Lord Gansly, who paid 11,500 guineas for Westward Ho last year, has just purchased a Tetrarch-Blue Dun yearling for the record price of 14,500 guineas.

The Hankow Autumn Races will be held on November 22, 23 and 24, entries closing on November 1.

The Autumn race meet of the Nippon race club is being held at the Negishi race course November 5 and 6. Great interest is being shown in the meet.

The luck of the draw for the billiards championships in London brings Inman and Reece together, promising one of the most entertaining matches of the series.

The draw is as follows:

Feb. 14.—Thurston's: Tothill v. Newman.

Feb. 14.—Burroughes Hall: Stevenson v. Falkiner.

Feb. 22.—Thurston's: Smith v. Lawrence.

Feb. 21.—Burroughes Hall: Inman v. Reece.

Feb. 22.—Thurston's: Semi-final, Smith or Lawrence v. Inman or Reece.

Feb. 28.—Burroughes Hall: Semi-final, Stevenson or Falkiner v. Tothill or Newman.

March 7.—Thurston's: Final heat.

The preliminary games will be 8,000 up and the final 16,000 up.

The American professional baseball teams which are to come to the Orient have sailed from San Francisco and should reach Yokohama November 22. Keio and Waseda Universities are among the first Japanese teams which will meet the visitors.

Fine Golf In Matches For Shanghai Championship

good stead, for after reaching the green, hole high, he got down in two. Against this Mr. Cumming required three putts. On the tenth Mr. Cumming got a half in four by virtue of a beautiful recovery from the rough to the right, where a sliced tee shot left him. They halved the short eleventh and likewise the twelfth, although Mr. Ferrier probably would have won this hole had not his opponent laid him a stymie.

FINE DISPLAY OF GOLF

It was on the unluckly thirteenth—unlucky to Mr. Cumming—that Mr. Ferrier displayed a brand of golf that Vardon himself could not have improved upon, and which must have been as disheartening to his opponent as it was beautiful to the impartial spectators. This hole is 427 yards from tee to green and the green is guarded by a deep ditch that is famous at Kiangwan as a heartbreaker.

On this hole Mr. Ferrier supplemented a beautiful tee shot that carried 250 yards or more straight down the alley with a midiron poke that lifted his ball over the ditch to the green, and to within a yard of the pin. He was down in one putt for a three on a hole for which five would not be an unfair par. Mr. Cumming was also on in two but so far from the pin that he required three putts to get down.

This left Mr. Cumming dormie five and after they had halved the long fourteenth in six, against a young gale, Mr. Cumming gracefully congratulated his victorious opponent. Their cards, with approximations in a few instances, were:

Mr. Ferrier won by 5 up and 4 to play.

OSWALD DEFEATS BOLTON

In the match between Mr. Oswald and Mr. Bolton the former had the better of the argument practically the whole day, due largely to his excellent intermediate work, although his driving and putting were uniformly good. As a result of his win over Mr. Bolton, Mr. Oswald will meet Mr. Ferrier in one of the semi-final matches next Sunday, and if both are on their game the contest ought to be a good one.

Captain Dewar, the defending champion, was put out of the running Sunday largely as a result of the steadier play by his opponent, Mr. McEachran. Capt. Dewar started out as though he intended to make short work of the match, winning the first three holes in rather easy fashion. Undismayed, the Glasgow man kept plugging away, with the result that he was ahead at tiffin time. Resuming the match in the afternoon Mr. McEachran continued his steady play, gradually wearing down his more seasoned opponent. It may be said for Capt. Dewar that he was not playing up to his usual standard, but this does not in any way detract from Mr. Eachran's victory, for if his opponent was not playing up to standard it is equally true that he had to carry the greater mental load, since it was the club champion that he was pitted against, which in itself was a handicap. But this, like the wind and the billard table greens, did not seem to disturb the Scot. He went right ahead, winning his match on the 15th green.

Lieut.-Col. Marr Johnson had rather an easy time with Mr. Stewart, winning almost as he pleased. Mr. Stewart could not make his mashie behave, his approaches being either short or wide of the mark.

THE man who would forge to the front in this competitive age must be a man of prompt and determined decision. Like Caesar, he must burn his ships behind him, and make retreat forever impossible. Prompt decision and sublime audacity have carried many a successful man over perilous crises where deliberation would have been ruin. CASTORIA for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"For several years I recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PESLER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

Boulon Hearing Resumed In American Court

attorneys, Mr. W. S. Fleming, appearing with Maj. C. P. Holcomb for the prosecution, volunteered a statement.

He said that the prosecution was willing to admit in connection with all the various exchange contracts under scrutiny that wherever these showed profits made they were taken by Mr. Boulon.

The cross examination of Mr. Beeson is to be resumed this afternoon by Mr. R. S. Haskell, counsel for Mr. Boulon, and he said yesterday that he will need another hour with this witness. Mr. Fleming said that three more witnesses for the prosecution are to be heard. The testimony in detail given yesterday under Mr. Haskell's cross examination follows:

THE TESTIMONY

When the hearing was resumed Mr. Beeson continued to testify under cross examination by Mr. Haskell as follows:

Q—In the course of the company's business if there had been a loss on these exchange contracts would that have been debited to Mr. Boulon's account?

A—No there would be no debit to his account unless the exchange was known to be bought in his name and for him.

Q—You say that there is not enough evidence of these contracts being for his account to have warranted your accountant debiting him in the event of a loss?

A—Not at the time of the purchase, no.

Q—At the time of the sale?

A—There were none sold at a loss.

Q—Was there evidence enough of the sales contracts to have warranted a debit entry in the event there had been a loss?

A—I do not think so.

Q—Well there was evidence enough on those contracts to credit Mr. Boulon with the profit?

A—No there was not.

Q—How do you account for the fact that they were credited to his acount?

A—Presumably at his instructions.

Q—And his instructions only, you say?

A—So far as I know. Certainly not of mine.

Q—His instructions who to?

A—Probably to those on the accounting staff who were immediately handling the entries of the transactions.

Q—Direct from Mr. Boulon to the ledger clerks?

A—To the chief accountant from some of the staff.

Q—For instance to Mr. Jones?

A—I did not foHow those transactions at the time they were made or I would have known who bought them at the time.

Q—You said of course you did not know anything about them at the time?

A—At the time, no.

Q—Yet you passed on the vouchers which were necessary in the course of these entries?

A—There are no vouchers necessary in the entry of exchange purchases and sales, because the brokers' contracts that are in evidence here are used as the vouchers from which the entry is made.

Q—But is there a voucher necessary for a profit when there is a profit on a sale?

A—Not a voucher, it is passed through the cash receipts, what is known as cash receipt sheets in cash receipts book. The cashier makes those entries.

Q—And those receipts are checked and passed?

A—The receipts are not checked and passed by me at all. In fact there is not the same necessity for checking receipts as disbursements. I presume I would pass daily as disbursements were made. Receipts are only gone over occasionally as we got a chance to make an audit or check back the past operations.

Q—But you did initial them?

A—Cash receipts no.

Q—You did not?

A—No, I did not pass or initial cash receipt sheets I think ever.

Q—How about disbursements? You say there is a greater necessity there for your passing on them?

A—Naturally.

Q—And did the vouchers in that exchange, if you call them vouchers get passed by you and initialed before money is paid out?

A—Yes.

Q—And did that happen invariably when money was paid out?

A—You mean passing through my hands, yes.

Q—And when Mr. Boulon drew cash on his own account such voucher was made out and passed and initialed by you?

A—It would be, yes, in due course.

Q—You would say that in all circumstances referred to here in all the items of Mr. Boulon's account that such vouchers would pass through your hands and were initialed?

A—In cases where he drew cash against his account you mean. I may say that would not pass through my hands.

Q—It would be possible for him to produce vouchers as part of the company's records?

A—Yes.

Q—Now who is it that enters the exchange contracts into the records, referring particularly to the contracts in question?

A—The exchange contracts are entered now by one of our staff. At the time these contracts were entered into they were entered by another clerk, Green, who is not with us now.

Q—And who was his immediate senior?

A—Mr. Jones.

Q—And his immediate senior was who?

A—Mr. Boulon.

Q—Where do you come in there in the Shanghai Company?

A—I hold a power-of-attorney from New York. I did not hold an official position on the staff of the Shanghai company.

Q—In your particular work you were a man of about the same authority as Mr. Boulon I suppose.

Mr. Boulon was the manager and of course, as manager, had certain authority perhaps, and you as assistant treasurer and auditor had other duties, but your authority, your power and your position was about equal to Mr. Boulon's?

A—I held a power-of-attorney, but Mr. Boulon was the manager strictly.

Q—And you acted as an assistant to the accountant?

A—I have done this during the past six months more or less because of being short staffed.

Q—Did Mr. Boulon to your knowledge ever make any demands for settlement with the firm?

A—Yes he did. Immediately after his return from New York in September.

Q—And in those demands did he make any reference to the profits on exchange contracts, did he demand settlement of those profits?

A—I do not recall that he made any reference to exchange profits and he would not make reference to his own exchange profits. He made reference to his account as a whole, did not particularise as to any certain details of the account. He made the statement that dealers from whom he had borrowed money and in turn loaned it to the company were pressing him for payment and it was necessary for him to secure payment from us in order to pay those dealers, from whom he claimed to have borrowed money.

Q—Did he make more than one demand?

A—I know there was one. There may have been two.

Q—I put it to you that about the 18th of September you had a conversation with Mr. Boulon in which you asked him if he had taken up the matters of the exchange settlement with New York?

A—No conversation about specific exchange contracts that I recall or exchange in general. As I recall, the conversation was in regard to paying him what he claimed was due him from the company.

Q—And this question of exchange came up at that time in these particular exchange contracts?

A—No they did not.

Q—Now Mr. Boulon is credited in your books with the profits of all these exchange settlements except possibly the second item of Taels 1,323 and the Taels 12,000 item. Is that not so?

A—I believe that is correct, all but two.

Q—And that money which was there to Mr. Boulon's credit was used by the firm while it was there?

A—It was there a very short time, not much use to the firm's account.

Court—Was this exchange bought for the account of Mr. Boulon or for the account of G. W. & W.? I think that is the main question. If it was bought for G. W. & W. what was done with the profits?

Q—In the statement of Mr. Boulon's account you have certain items of brokerage which was charged to this account, haven't you?

A—I believe there are some.

Q—And that brokerage referred to the item of Taels 4,538 and Taels 1,134, Tael 1,110 and Taels 2,116, four items, each of which is made a count in this charge on which the firm has charged Mr. Boulon, debited him with the brokerage on those contracts.

A—I do not remember specific items in the account.

Q—And Mr. Boulon paid the brokerage on those four items?

A—It was charged to his account.

Q—And yet he is charged with embezzling that brokerage. They include it in the charge here and yet it was paid out to Messrs. Farvbridge and Tasmore.

A—The amount included in the charges is the amount of profits derived from the sale of the exchange.

Q—You are an accountant and yet do not deduct the amount of brokerage from the profits when you figure the net profit?

A—Not at the time at all. A brokerage is an after charge.

Q—Yes, an after charge and a charge was made on the books afterwards. When you prepared the accounts for this Court you did not make deduction for that, did you?

Mr. Fleming.—Certainly not. The whole amounts were embezzled.

Q—You have handed in a statement of Mr. Boulon's account Exhibit C. C. C. on which Mr. Boulon is debited with certain hosiery, clothing, neckwear, purchased in the firm's name for Mr. Boulon's account, haven't you?

A—There may be such. I do not recall specifically.

Q—And in that case Mr. Boulon used the credit of the firm to purchase those articles.

A—Yes, because it was known at the time that it was chargeable to him. He was responsible for payment of the same.

Q—And if there had been a profit to Mr. Boulon the firm would not have claimed it. In other words, if he had bought those hosiery, neckwear, and other things and the price went up G. W. & W. would not collect that profit.

A—So far as I know it was not supposed to be purchased for resale. It was merely a personal purchase which passed through his account.

Q—The same as an exchange contract might be a personal purchase?

A—If it is such, but these are not such.

Q—Then you say if these exchange contracts are purchased by Mr. Boulon in the firm's name that is quite all right, the same as it was quite all right to purchase hosiery, etc.

Objection—Now on the 12,250.54 Tael item Taels 12,000 was turned back to the firm, wasn't it?

A—Taels 12,000 were paid to the firm by Mr. Boulon at about the same time that this exchange transaction went through.

Q—And that money was used by the firm and needed by the firm at that time.

A—I do not know whether it was needed by the firm.

Q—Is it not true that Mr. Avery of the Asia Banking Corporation about the end of March sent for Mr. Coleman and inquired as to the matters of exchange?

A—I do not recall any conversation with Mr. Avery in regard to exchange. I do not know anything about any transaction between Mr. Avery and Mr. Coleman regarding speculation. I know that there were conversations between the Asia Bank and Mr. Coleman on the general line of business, but that there were any specifically on exchange I do not know of any.

Q—Do you know that the banks are not in favor of firms speculating and manipulating exchange for profit?

A—Certainly they do not look with favor upon speculation.

Q—Now what is exchange bought for by a firm?

A—It is bought for the purpose of paying in a foreign currency for imported cargo for account of the firm or of the dealers.

Q—And when you speak of settling exchange what do you mean by that?

A—I mean the buying of exchange sufficient to meet necessary requirements of cargo coming forward for open account or of our own account that has not yet been sold to dealers.

Q—And there are only two purchases for which your firm buys exchange?

A—Yes. At request of dealers for cargo coming in for them or for stock on open account.

Q—Has your firm ever bought it for any other purpose?

Q—Not as a regular course of business. There might be occasions where we would buy a gold dollar draft for some purpose just like making change for an individual, but it would not be regular ordinary routine of business.

Q—Now when you settle exchange to cover client's cargo at their request is this request in writing or verbally?

A—It is in writing from the client, always in writing, so far as I know.

Q—Do you have a particular form which they sign?

A—Yes.

Q—And that is a part of the records of your office?

A—Yes.

Q—Do they always sign that request that exchange be settled?

A—As far as I know they are always required to sign it. I know of no transactions where that was done verbally.

Q—When the firm settles exchange for stock, would it settle for an amount exceeding the value of merchandise ordered at the time,

A—No, not ordinarily. If the firm settled in excess of their requirements it would be speculation and the firm does not speculate. We only settle enough exchange to cover stock or cargo which is to arrive either for dealer's account or for stock.

Q—And you say that the exchange in question there was purchased by the firm.

A—Yes.

Q—What for?

A—In my opinion it would be that it was bought by the manager for his own profits.

Q—I put it to you that the total amount of exchange purchased in the firm's name under these counts and the other contracts by them some times amounted to about £142,000.

A—I do not remember the amount exactly, but probably thereabouts.

Q—And had your clients orders for that amount of exchange?

A—No, I could not say for how much exchange they had ordered.

Questions then followed about exchange matters.

Court—You say you charged Mr. Boulon up with the brokerage on exchange. The brokerage of course is not due until after the exchange is sold or are they made at the time the exchange is purchased?

A—The brokerage is submitted by the brokers' bill at the end of the month or the end of three months after the transaction has taken place depending upon how often the broker sends in his bill.

Q—But all the exchange bought for Mr. Boulon's personal account was sold again within a day or two after it was purchased.

A—In most cases I think the time was very short, a few days. I do not recall whether any of them covered a longer period. The records would show that.

Q—Who charged Mr. Boulon's account with these various amounts, how were they debited on his account? Who selected them?

A—I cannot answer that. It was done in the accounting department through whose hands the charges were passed and I am not in a position to say how they would be picked out except perhaps as being applicable against items the profits of which have already been credited to Mr. Boulon.

Q—Was there any contract made by Mr. Boulon which resulted in a loss and charged to his account, a contract of exchange?

A—No. It would only result in a loss if the exchange were sold and those that the fluctuation of exchange did not warrant selling at a profit are still unsold.

Q—But bought at the same time?

A—Bought at the name time and they stand the firm at a loss today if we were to dispose of them at the present rates of exchange.

Q—What are they in?

A—Gold dollars, and sterling and there was no cargo going out when this exchange was bought. The firm has no use for that exchange.

Q—Why was it purchased?

A—That is for Mr. Boulon to answer.

Court: You are willing to admit that all of these other counts outside 1, 2, 7 and 8 do not show any dealers in the exchange books therefor. They also do not show that they were purchased for any particular merchandise. It was done for the purpose of speculating and therefore it was done for the account of Mr. Boulon.

Mr. Haskell: Yes, that is right, that is true.

League Publishing Treatie As Provided By Covenant

London, Sept. 11.—The first series of treaties received for registration in accordance with the Covenant of the League of Nations was sent to the printer today for publication as Volume I. of the League's official journal. Ten agreements are included, relating to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Great Britain, Japan, The Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland, France, Greece, Italy and Bulgaria, together with a general treaty on the preservation or the re-establishment of the rights of industrial properties affected by the World War.

Acknowledging receipt of the League's memorandum concerning the registration and publication of international treaties, Herr Shamer, the German Charge in London, has written to the League saying that Germany was fully prepared to inform the Secretary General of all such agreements entered upon since the coming into force of the Peace Treaty, and would act similarly regarding future agreements. The letter adds:

"In view of the fact that Germany is not a member of the League, the provision laid down in Article XVIII. of the covenant to the effect that the legal validity of all international agreemnts shall date from the day of their registration by the League cannot in the nature of things apply to Germany."

TWO FOOTBALL GAMES TODAY

went all out to equalise and scored the only goal of the second half.

Both sides were unfortunate in not scoring more as on several occasions the ball showed a wonderful objection to the net, evading capture by fractions of an inch.

The College entertained the Recreation Club to tea after the match and a most enjoyable afternoon was rounded off with suitable speeches.

Today the Nanyang team will play the "Recs," weather permitting. Kick-off at 3 p.m. The following will represent the S.R.C.:

A. H. Remedios; L. P. Quincey and B. H. Smith; S. Emamooden; E. F. Mears and F. C. H. Ollerdessen; G. Norris; E. J. Cooke; A. Sofoulis; W. Archer and J. Xavier. Reserves: J. McLachlan; G. A. Draifseldt.

ANOTHER GOOD GAME

This afternoon, weather permitting, St. Xavier's football eleven will meet St. John's University on the latter's ground and a snappy contest should result. The following, who will turn out for the Xaviers Football Club, are requested to meet at the School at 2:15:

W. Garry, P. Oliveiros, F. Wittsack, W. Favacho, H. Johnson, J. Tordy, F. Gutierrez, G. Silva, J. Silva, F. Read and V. Favacho. Reserves: J. Macdonald, J. Lima, N. Collaco.

The St. John's line-up will be as follows: Tyau Chung-hwe, Zi Dunghwe, Tsang Feh-sing, Moo Tuh-tai, Yang Kyung-tshien, Ling Zien-hwe, Mung Chung-tsung, Daung Ung-ling, Nyien Zeu-khaung, Zung Kaung-hoe, Zung Tsoong-yen. Reserves: Yui Ta-isoong, Tsung Yuh-loo, Hoo Kyulieu, Zung Chi-tung.

H.M.S. HAWKINS vs. FUHTAN

The above match was played on the Fuhtan College grounds last Saturday and resulted in a tie game of 1 to 1.

The collegians scored first. After the opposing full back missed a shot, the college inside right made a pretty run and sent a beautiful shot right into the goal.

The sailors had many chances to score in the second half but most of them were missed. At last, a shot from their center half toward the goal post eluded the goal-keeper—after which the tie could not be broken.

SOOCHOW U. v. SOOCHOW A.

Soochow Academy sprung a big surprise last Saturday by holding Soochow University to the close score of 4-3, astonishing the collegians by the cleverness of their play.

NUXATED IRON
Don't Accept Substitutes and afterwards be sorry
The fact that Nuxated Iron is now probably the most widely used strength and blood-builder in the world—over 3,000,000 people take it annually—is convincing evidence not only of its great therapeutic value but of its superiority over other iron preparations. Unlike metallic iron products, it is easily assimilated, will not irritate the stomach, nor blacken the teeth. Ask your doctor or druggist.

Westinghouse
ELECTRICAL APPARATUS FOR EVERY PURPOSE
This trade mark is the guarantee of dependable electrical equipment.
Doing the Word's Work
Though the source of power may be miles from the work to be done, the electric motor makes possible its direct application to the task.
Westinghouse Motors do this economically and well, for they are designed to fit exactly their particular task and are built to meet the highest standards of quality and service.
Thus Westinghouse Motors are to be found in thousands of different applications.
They operate power machines in the workshop;
They handle the heaviest freight traffic in the world;
They drive the most powerful passenger locomotives;
They haul coal and ore from the earth's interior;
They drive the propellers of merchant vessels and warships;
They turn the wheels of thousands of street cars;
They operate lathes, presses, shears, tools, printing presses, elevators, and thousands of other machines—doing their work so well that progressive concerns have cast aside millions of dollars' worth of former equipment in order to install them.
They grind coffee for the grocer, chop meat for the butcher, sweep, wash, iron and sew for the housewife.
When the motor bears the trade mark Westinghouse Electric there is no question of its giving satisfactory service.

Education In Japan To Prepare Students More For Industries

Japan's post war, endeavors to hold or promote her commerce and industry have been extended to educational fields. Already commissiong have been working hard to find means with which to improve trading of hands in agriculture and industry. Now a new commission is appointed to better the system of education in commerce.

Commissiong to deal with education in agriculture and industry were appointed many months ago. They have already finished their primary investigations into the present condition of education in those fields and, according to an announcement just made, principles which are to be applied to that branch of practical education are already roughly drawn up. Now the commissions are working to get up minute curricula for those schools which are intended for the training of workers in those fields.

A new commission has been appointed to deal with commercial education. This commission is composed of people eminent in commercial education including Dr. Z. Sano, President of the Tokio Commercial College, Dr. S. Kawazu of the Tokio Imperial University, Dr. T. Uyeda of the Tokio Commercial College, Baron B. Ito, Head of the Commercial Affairs Section in the Department of Agriculture and Commerce, Mr. K. Tachibana, Director of the Okura Commercial School, and others.

This new commission is authorised to investigate into the present condition of commercial training given to graduates of elementary schools. On the result of the investigations it is requested to draft regulations best suited for the training of men actively working for Japan's commercial promotion after the war.

Cal fornia Japanese Attract Attention In Tokio By Dress

Groups of California Japanese have been attracting considerable attention from their fellow countrymen and country-women as they have gone about the streets of Tokio in American dress. Foreign dress for men is very common in Tokio now, but the women in foreign clothes are a novelty.

The Californians, about 250 in all, arrived at Yokohama from Los Angeles on the steamship Canada Maru last week. Most of them were women and children, members of families engaged in raising cantaloupes in America, who have come to Japan for a winter visit. The head of the party is Mrs. Tatsuta, who is quoted by the Chugai as saying that their coming to Japan was not the result of anti-Japanese agitation in California.

She said that the members of her party were confident that California question would be happily settled "especially in view of the sense of justice and fairplay that always dominates the American people's policy."

The Case Of Mr. Show

READERS of THE CHINA PRESS are of course familiar with the case of Mr. G. L. Shaw, the British merchant of Antung who has just been released from jail on bail after four months unnecessary imprisonment by the Japanese authorities of Korea. But we desire to call their special attention to the British view of the case as set forth in last Sunday's issue of this newspaper. This was stated in the paper prepared by Mr. A. W. Burkill and read before the Associated British Chambers of Commerce at the concluding session on Saturday. In part it said:

> Mr. Shaw was arrested in Korea and imprisoned in a Japanese jail for an offense alleged to have been committed in China where Mr. Shaw was living within the jurisdiction of the British Courts. Had Mr. Shaw been brought to trial immediately and the charges against him openly proved we should probably have heard very little of these fine points of international law practice. But Mr. Shaw was kept in prison for four months, during all the heat of summer, was cut off from communication with his friends and was never brought to trial on any charge whatever.
> Gentlemen, I think I am putting it moderately when I say that we cannot regard that as a conciliatory act on the part of the Japanese Government. Mr. Shaw is one of our associate members and has been a bulwark of British commerce in Antung. He has been an outspoken critic of Japanese methods in Manchuria whenever he believed that such methods constituted discrimination against British trade.
> Under these circumstances it is not to be wondered at if a suspicion has arisen that that is his real offense in Japanese eyes. We received a telegram yesterday informing us that Mr. Shaw has been released on bail. I feel certain that I voice the opinion not only of this Conference but also the whole British community in the Far East when I say that that is not a satisfactory solution of or termination to the case/
> If Mr. Shaw has committed any offense let him be duly charged and brought to open speedy trial before a court of competent jurisdiction. If no charge can be brought against him then British opinion will demand that he be amply compensated for the outrage that has been inflicted on him.

No reader, we believe, will be disposed to question the fairness of Mr. Burkill's statement. Nor does the reply to it issued by the Consul General here for Japan printed elsewhere on this page, serve in any way to clear the sky. He merely states, all on his own, that "the Japanese authorities were not prompted by a motive to remove their critic and a commercial rival from Manchuria."

Then what was their motive? Why did they keep Mr. Shaw in jail so long, only at last to free him on bail, as they should have done the first or second day after his arrest? The necessity for investigation? They knew all about Mr. Shaw when they arrested him. They had been watching him for years. And from what source does Mr. Yamasaki derive his information that the motive was not as stated by Mr. Burkill? Has he received some word from the Japanese authorities as to the real motive?

The fact remains that Mr. Shaw was prevented from conducting his business at what was to him the most important period of the year.

Correspondence

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir,—I beg to enclose herewith a copy of my letter addressed to the Chairman of the Conference of the Associated British Chambers of Commerce in China and Hongkong regarding the case of Mr. G. L. Shaw.

I remain,
Yours faithfully,
K. Yamasaki.

November 7, 1920.

(Enclosure)

The Chairman,
Conference of the Associated British Chambers of Commerce in China and Hongkong.

Sir,—I have read your speech delivered at Saturday's meeting of the Associated British Chambers of Commerce in China and Hongkong regarding Mr. Shaw's case with great interest. While fully appreciating the Association's point of view and the friendly spirit in which the subject was dealt with, I cannot but most strongly refute the charge, if it still exists, that in detaining Mr. Shaw, the Japanese authorities were prompted by a motive to remove their critic and a commercial rival from Manchuria. Nothing is more fantastic than this allegation. Nor is it fair to suggest that the quarantine imposed in Tsingtao this summer, though it might have been obnoxious, was an economic weapon in disguise against British trade; the same measure having been enforced in respect of all ships arriving at that port whether they were under the Japanese, British or any other flag.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the Press.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient Servant,
(Signed) K. Yamasaki.

SHANGHAI CHINESE-FOREIGN FAMINE RELIEF COMMITTEE

Dear Sir,—It is increasingly evident that the famine work we, in conjunction with other Committees of standing in China, are seeking to do is not receiving the fullest support the need warrants. I do not require to tell your readers of the dire distress prevailing over a large area, distress so bad that the people—millions of them—are now reduced to food made of a dough composed of leaves, bark of trees, roots of weeds, and grass mixed with what looks like sand or earth. We have samples of this in the famine office, 22 The Bund for inspection any time.

I desire to bring to the notice of the general public that our Committee is working in the closest possible touch with the Tientsin International Society of Famine Relief and with other reliable Committees throughout China, and our policy is to distribute relief only through Missionaries, or other Foreigners, who are responsible for all who assist them in the work of distribution. As Chairman of our Distribution Committee I know that all monies entrusted to us will be sent out only to the most reliable people.

I estimate that the most we can expect from the charitable public (both Chinese and Foreign) the world over will not provide more than three copper cents a day per suffer for one month; and we have another six months of this famine still before us. The conditions are bad enough now, but what will they be like a month hence when the Northern winter sets in?

We are now giving immediate relief to the starving people in sections of the large famine area, but the only hope of adequately meeting the great need and avoiding an enormous death-roll is a large foreign loan; and it requires to be pointed out that this is a matter requiring the urgent attention of all with business and other interests in China, and while this needs no further demonstration, it does require to be emphasised that immediate acting along this line is necessary. The Consortium must come to the rescue, and that speedily too. We have a Committee here and in Tientsin, with the confidence of both Chinese and Foreign businessmen, able and ready to undertake the handling of this loan.

I crave your indulgence for one short word more. In our work of famine distribution we are finding it not too easy to get our supplies of grain from Manchuria and Hankow and other parts owing to the unnecessary holding up of rolling stock by military Tuchuns. This we feel could be rectified by a strong word in the right quarter in Peking.

Thanking you for the publicity given us in your columns, and for your courtesy in publishing this letter. I am, yours faithfully,

WM. E. SOOTER.

LINES FROM LETTERS

Dear Mutt: Who do you think has arrived? You wouldn't guess right if I waited from now till we repeal the Eighteenth Amendment. It is Maggie and Jiggs. The fact is that the Races are being run, and all the elite are to be seen there. 'Nuff sed! Those races are sure some good thing. The whole town goes dippy over them. No one does any work, even the police courts and the consulates shut their doors while the little Chinese ponies carry their big riders to victory. You put five dollars on a pony and then hope! If a lot of other folk hope for the same pony, and it wins, then your five dollars comes back to you with a few cents interest; if the four footed beast loses you don't get your five dollars back. Sometimes, even if you win, you don't get your five back—only $4.80 or $4.90. That is all there is to it. The big sweep is worth more money than I can think about. You pay ten dollars for a chance. And it is a chance. No chance for yours truly—Jeff.

LATEST STRIKES

The strike of the Mafoos, or the threatened strike, resulted in the practice runs on Saturday being a bit out of order. As an outcome of this novelty in strikes, it is natuural that others will follow. For instance we shall have the houseboys telling Mississee that they no can do boy pidgin supposing Mississee no pay them little cumshaw, little more pay, little more squeeze, and a little less work. The cooks will certainly refuse to concoct dainties if master stay club side so long that dinner no b'long ploper, and Mississee makee bobbery because cook no can keep dinner hot till ten o'clock.

And now that football is in full swing again I am quite expecting to read in the sports page an account something after this style: "The Recstoms won the toss, and some pretty work was accomplished by the front line. After a smart run up the field, play was stopped by the Pleece club complaining that the referee had threatened to put a player off the field because that player had kicked him and knocked out three of his teeth. After some discussion an apology was handed in by the Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Referees.

It is hoped that a settlement will be reached before next Saturday.

ON COCKTAILS

Correct me if I am wrong, but I am told that the very first variety of cocktails evolved in America was composed of the following ingredients: some kind of whiskey; some water; a little lemon, and a spoonful of sugar.

AND THAT REMINDS ME

Two Irishmen went to America with the intention of becoming honest-to-goodness Yankees. One of them found a cheery companion—it was before July 1st, 1919—and he was introduced to a cocktail something like the one I started out to describe. When he had sampled the delicacy he went back to his pal Mike and thus spoke of the cocktail:

"Mike, have ye ever had a cocktail? Begorra its a wonderful mixture; they put whiskey in it to make it strong; they put water in it to make it weak; they put lemon in it to make it sour; they put sugar in it to make it sweet; they then say here's to you, and they drink it themselves. It's a wonderful country, Mike."

AND TALKING OF COCKTAILS

Chatting with Mr. Charles Hawtrey at the St. James's Theater, London, where he has scored another triumph in "His Lady Friends," I put the question, "What was the proudest moment of your life?"

The popular actor thought for a moment, and then replied:

"When I invented the cocktail which bears my name. And thereby hangs a story. One day two friends of mine took a Dutch guest to the Savoy, and one gave an order for three 'Hawtrey cocktails.' The foreigner liked the drink so much that another round was ordered. Then spake the Dutchman—

"'Vat is id you gall dot, so I ask for anoder,' 'Hawtrey cocktail,' he was told. 'Ach, 'Awtrey. And vot is Awtrey,' 'Hawtrey? Oh, he invented it.' 'Vos dot so? A gread man, er?'

"'Well,' went on my friend, 'he's Charles Hawtrey, the actor.' 'So!' ejaculated the Dutchman, in surprise. 'Doss he act too!'"

Tribute To T. R. Jernigan Paid By Bar Association

At the session of the U.S. Court for China yesterday before the regular calendar was taken up, Major Arthur Bassett presented the following resolution in behalf of the Shanghai branch of the Far Eastern American Bar Association:

"We contemplate the death of the foremost leader of our Bar with more than mere expressions of grief, for his passing leaves the realisation that the years of his service in our midst made up a finished cycle of influence for good. It seems to us that his life as far as his human endeavor could make it was satisfaction, not only to his friends, but to the multitude of men whom he served so earnestly, as a model of professional deportment. We feel, therefore, that our expressions of condolence to his family would fail if we did not declare our gratitude to him for the example of conduct which he, now dead, still ever holds before us.

"His was a useful life. The petty annoyances that weigh so heavily on some of us, left him undisturbed with the smile of optimism ever on his face. Resolution without bigotry, tolerance without weakness, benevolence without ostentation, confidence in men, "careless of reward, faithful in trust". These were the traits of character by which we knew him best. Added to these was the brilliant mind, trained to the closest application of sustained mental effort and which distinguished him to the end.

"Long a resident in a foreign land his intense love of his native State and country was his outstanding characteristic. He never let pass unchallenged any word of unfair criticism of his government or its institutions. He believed that America had and was meeting her obligations in the family of nations and in his conversations, as in his writings, he often expressed the pride he felt in his country's achievements.

"This intense patriotism, however, did not make less his interest in the weal of Shanghai, where he so long resided and in the advancement of China and the welfare of her people. Loyal to the land of his birth, he recognised and fully met the obligations arising from residence in this city and this country.

"We feel his death is a great loss to this Court and to this community."

After the reading of the resolution remarks apropos thereof were made as follows:

Dean Charles W. Rankin:

"If the Court please, I second the motion that the resolution be spread upon the records of the Court, and in doing so I wish to make a few remarks with reference to Brother Jernigan's association with us in the Comparative Law School in which he was very much interested from its opening in 1915.

"His line of instruction was a series of lectures on great lawyers. He began with some of the Roman lawyers, followed with great English jurists, especially Lord Mansfield and concluded with one lecture on Chief Justice Marshall. He became so much interested in the life of that great jurist that he concluded to investigate farther and got different works that would give him closer insight both into the personal life of the Chief Justice Marshall and then into his judicial career. I would go into his room occasionally and he would say 'I have a new work on the life of Marshall which I am reading. As soon as I am through that I want to give another lecture on Marshall.' These lectures and studies were a revelation to me of the tremendous interest that he had in the Bar, in lawyers, in Judges, in the profession, in the position of leadership which the profession exercised in the world and it also gave me a closer insight into his great interest in China and his willingness to use his time and to give his closest thought to developing the young lawyers of this country. I have appreciated that and we all have appreciated, students and instructors alike, his interest in the work of the school.

"Just a short time prior to his death, during this last September, I talked with him about giving his second lecture and he said Just as soon as I am able to write it, I shall be there and give it. His mind and his thought up to the last have been with the young lawyers of China. This phase of his life and his work have drawn him to me every closely and we have lost a good friend, a faithful instructor and one who has meant much to our law school and to the future lawyers and judges of this great country."

Dr. Wu Ting-fang:

"I come here on this occasion to speak on behalf of my countrymen and also personally. I remember over 25 years ago, on my way to your country as Minister for China, I passed through here and found Dr. Jernigan Consul General. From inquiries I made I found he was most popular not only among the foreign Community, but among the Chinese. To my country he gave the best of advice and when I was in America I learned with regret that his term of office had expired.

"On my return from America I was glad to renew my acquaintance with him and on many occasions when I saw him I found that he was doing great service not only in his legal capacity, but as a friend of China. Although recently he was not in the best of health I thought he would live for many years more, but now I am sorry to say that he has left us. It is a great loss not only to China, but also to the friends who knew him. Being a theosophist and knowing that this is only a temporary life, although I miss him here, I hope to see him in the other world. No doubt now having spent his life in an honest, straightforward manner, he is happy in the land beyond. Still as he has gone we miss him and I endorse the words of the resolution."

Stirling Fessenden, Esquire:

"Perhaps of all the friends and acquaintances of Mr. Jernigan in China there was none who knew him as I did. It was 15 years to a day from the date I joined him as a partner to the day of his death, and in all those years there was scarcely a day that I did not have conversations with him not only about law but about all matters that a mind so keen as his would be interested in. Those conversations covered the widest possible range of subjects—history, law, politics, the science of government, poetry, everything that a man of literary mind would be interested in.

"In the later years of his life he found the drudgery of purely commercial law, which forms a great part of practice at the bar, somewhat onerous and gradually relinquished his part in it but he kept up a great interest in constitutional law, in international law, the science of government and politics and among all the men I have ever known I have never met one who had a deeper knowledge of government in all its aspects, of the history of government, or who was a keener and shrewder judge of men and of political events.

"In addition, he was one of the widest read men that it had ever been my pleasure to be associated with, and I always remember a remark he made to me shortly before he died to the effect that never from his boyhood to the present time had he ever read a trashy book, which illustrated his great fondness for good literature.

"In a quiet way he aided and be friended a great many people. He was the adviser of those in trouble as this resolution stated 'without reward.' 'Few knew the number who came to him in trouble, who sought his advice and followed it and who have entertained for him the most affectionate feeling. One little incident touched me very much. The day after his death a Korean gentleman came to my office, a man I had never seen, and said that being a Korean he did not know quite what was the proper procedure for him to take, but he had come to me as Mr. Jernigan's partner to tell me that the deceased had been of the greatest service to the Korean people in the advice he had given them in their recent difficulties and his name was widely known among Koreans who regarded him as the best friend of Korea.

"I think not only the bar but all the people who knew him, though less intimately than I did, will feel as I do that his death removes an American citizen from our midst whose life and character and work has been of great value not only to his own associates, but to his own country in its prestige in China. And of course you will appreciate when I say that after 15 years of association with Mr. Jernigan, which was much more than that of a mere partner, his death to me personally is as great a shock and sorrow as if he were one of my own family."

Judge Lobingier:

"The Court has listened with profound interest to the reading of these resolutions and to the remarks in connection therewith. The late Mr. Jernigan's career was, on the whole, so unusual and his relations to this Court so unique that its records would be quite incomplete without a memorial of him.

"While Mr. Jernigan's professional life was divided between the fields of journalism and law, he never lost interest in the latter. When the infirmities of age came at last to interfere with his active participation in practice at the bar, he found solace in the voluminous literature of and about the law which he perused with unfailing interest almost unto the end. His well-stocked library included many volumes on the historical, scientific and general phases of the law and he was never tired of discussing the fund of information which he gathered from their pages.

"When Mr. Jernigan entered the American Consular service more than a generation ago, he brought with him an equipment always valuable there, but none the less rare, in his knowledge of legal principles. This became especially important to him when, in 1893, he was made Consul General at Shanghai where he was called upon to discharge extensive judicial functions. But his experience there convinced him of the necessity of the absolute separation of such functions from ordinary consular duties and the establishment of a distinct and independant tribunal. This attitude he maintained consistently having been an earnest advocate of the further change, but recently effected, which completed the unification of the American judiciary in Shanghai.

"For Mr. Jernigian was not one of those who considered his responsibility as a patriotic citizen ended in that connection when this Court was established. He recognised the further need of protecting its good name, upholding its prerogatives, and assisting it in discharging to the full the heavy responsibilities which our nation's legislature had conferred upon it. Having been an editor, lawyer and consular judge he enjoyed unusual opportunities of knowing the real motives of those who are fondest of criticising the courts, and he was ever watchful to defend the latter from shallow criticism or foul rumor.

Mr. Jernigan was one of the first to be admitted to the Bar of this Court and his is the second name on its roll of Attorneys. He was a charter member of the Far Eastern American Bar Association and later joined the National or American Bar Association whose proceedings as they appeared in its Journal and Reports he followed with great interest. Had he joined it earlier and been able to attend its meetings he would, undoubtedly, have become prominent in its council's. For Mr. Jernigan's conception of a lawyer was not as a mere advocate or fee getter. He took very seriously the lawyer's position as an officer of the court and he was ever ready to assist in the due administration of justice with wise counsel, helpful suggestions and words of encouragement. He followed with an almost paternal pride and interest the work of this Court. Even during the present term despite his declining strength, he has been a frequent attendant upon the sessions of the court and his familiar presence in this hall and in chambers will long be missed. He was a friend of the Court in the highest sense, jealous of its prestige and foremost in any movement to promote its greater efficiency and serviceability. In the words of Hamlet as applied to his father:

"He was a man, take him
for all in all,
We shall not soon look upon his like again."

"The Court is pleased to direct that the resolutions here presented be spread upon the records and appended to the minutes."

Noise-Proof Phone Latest Invention In London

Harnessing the human larynx in such a way that it is possible to carry on a conversation direct from the throat instead of the mouth is the latest thing in telephonic advancement, now being exhibited in London.

An advantage claimed for the "Laryngaphone" is that it is unaffected by external noises, no sound but the human voice being heard.

The transmitter is about the size of a wrist watch. It gathers up the vibrations direct from the vocal chords when it is placed in contact with the throat, and the sounds are plainly heard in the receiver.

A special apparatus has been designed for fire brigades, enabling a superintendent to be in constant touch with his masked men, and to converse with them readily. Hose men working on ladders and roof tops can keep in telephone touch with those working in other parts of a burning building.

The invention can also be used between chauffeur and motor car passengers, between air pilot and passenger, in noisy workshops, in railway tunnels and in marine engine rooms. The submarine worker can talk to the men at the surface or to another diver below. He can also make signals to the operator by simply dropping his jaw to the full extent, this movement working a switch.

Positions For Men Who Fought In War Sought By British

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 5.—A meeting was held at the Mansion House this afternoon for the purpose of inaugurating "Obligation week," in accordance with a scheme instituted by the Ministry of labor to find work for ex-service men still out of employment.

The Lord Mayor presided, and the Prince of Wales, who was the chief speaker, had a great reception, this being his first public engagement since his return from Australia.

In the course of the proceedings it was stated that it was hoped to place in employment 20,000 officers, 20,000 disabled men and 250,000 fit men who were still seeking work.

Sir John Jordan In Scheme To Advance Chinese Industries

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 5.—At a meeting today of the Federation of British Industries to consider the proposed Chinese-British Trade Corporation in accordance with the charter, secured from the Chinese Government, Sir John Jordan said that the undeveloped wealth of China had long attracted the attention of capitalists as a profitable field for investment but the question of obtaining adequate security had always stood in the way.

He advocated the formation of the corporation with staff and capital half British and half Chinese. With proper management, Sir John Jordan thought that the projected undertaking would open up a new era of British trade relations with China. A British undertaking with a Chinese partner could operate wherever there was the best business. He suggested that the corporation should start with a capital of £240,000.

A committee of well-known British manufacturers was appointed to consider the matter.

Coal Restrictions End In England

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 5.—The restrictions imposed during the coal strike are already being withdrawn. The Secretary of Mines has declared that the state of emergency is terminated. The limitations in the use of coal and light ended yesterday evening. Full train services will be resumed at the beginning of the week.

The unexpectedly early dropping of the coal restrictions is due to the good condition in which the miners kept the pits during the time of the strike, and to the large reserves that were built up prior to the strike, most of which are not yet half depleted.

French Army Term May Be Reduced

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Nov. 7.—The French Cabinet, which reassembled on Saturday morning at the Elysee under M. Millerand, considered the bill dealing with army reorganisation. The Petit Parisien states that an understanding was reached between all members of the Government as regards the principal of the new military law and the bill, which is to be submitted to the house between November 15 and 20, will reduce the term of military service from three to two years.

Paris, November 4.—According to the Excelsior the military authorities are of opinion that the contemplated reduction of the period of military service will necessitate the formation of a special corps of instructors to teach the troops the use of the new war machinery and the new system of tactics.

A center for higher military studies, it is stated, will be established at Versailles, where a selected number of officers will receive special training.

Koreans Are Under Japan's Surveillance

(Reuter's Service)

Fukuoka, November 6.—The police are keeping a strict eye on the thousands of Koreans employed at the collieries and factories here, in order to safeguard the high personages who are attending maneuvers in Kyushu.

Venizelos Campaigns To Defeat Ex-King

(Reuter's Service)

Athens, Nov. 7.—Premier Venizelos has commenced his election campaign with a visit to Patras where he delivered an important political speech.

The reception which was tendered him by the people of the city augurs well for a great Liberal party victory. M. Venizelos pointed out that the return of Ex-King Constantine would be the signal for civil war, and that the duty of Greece was now to break with the old parties in order that she might walk freely in the new path which had been opened to her by her recent conquests.

Britons Preparing For League Session

(Reuter's Service)

London, November 5.—A delegation representing the British Empire met at the House of Commons today to consider the arrangement for attendance at the assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva on November 15. Mr. Lloyd George presided, and there were also present members of the Cabinet and representatives of the Overseas Dominions.

Danzig Pact Will Be Signed Nov. 15

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, November 6.—After hearing the report of the Special Committee on the draft Convention between the Free City of Danzig and Poland, the Ambassadors' Conference has decided that the Convention should be signed on the 15th instant.

Paris, November 7.—The Conference of Ambassadors examined afresh, on Saturday, the draft treaty between Poland and the free city of Danzig. The modifications introduced by the Special Commission were approved, and the Conference decided that the text, thus modified, must be signed by the parties concerned by November 15.

Japanese Refused Right To Adopt American Babes

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Yuba City, California, November 5.—The requests of Messrs. Ju Suki Shinzu and Hayas Yana to be appointed fathers to American born children, to whom their property had been deeded, has been refused by the judge of the superior court, who said that evidence showed that the land had been acquired by the evasion of California laws.

Throngs See 'Country Fair' Given By Shanghai College

About 600 farmers and their families pressed into the Shanghai College compound on last Wednesday to see the Country Fair, big show of flowers, fruit, vegetables, grains, and other farm products; also animals, such as goats, rabbits, chickens, as well as exhibits of all kinds, educational, industrial, health, child-welfare, etc.

Mr. W. Z. Zee sent a superb collection of breeded poultry. Mr. Wang, who planned and built the beautiful Memorial Park on Chun Kung Road beyond the college, brought a fine collection of flowers. The Day School connected with the Yangtszepoo Social Center brought a splendid educational exhibit, consisting of hundreds of interesting articles made by the pupils. The model primary school at the gate of the college also furnished a grand exhibit.

Excellent bread, rolls, and cakes of many kinds were set forth by the cooks of the campus while the ladies displayed their canned fruits, of which Mrs. Kelhofer had over forty varieties beautifully put up.

The Commercial Press of Shanghai had an interesting educational exhibit. The Agricultural Department of the University of Nanking sent an exceptionally good exhibit of new varieties of cotton, specially selected and grown in Nanking, and a demonstrator was on hand to explain to the farmers the special advantages of each kind.

There were no prizes of value, but printed tags of different colors were distributed representing first, second and third prizies, and were highly esteemed by some of the exhibitors.

All the faculty, students, and servants of the campus acted as hosts and served tea to the guests and peanuts to the children, and helped to explain the exhibits to the crowds. The Chinese Boys Scouts from the gate school made a fine appearance and were helpful all the day long in many ways.

In the afternoon a program of entertainment and instruction was carried out in the chapel, which was crowded to the doors. A splendid Chinese play and Chinese music were rendered. Children's games and races were held and an exhibition of Chinese boxing was given on the lawn. The day ended with a lantern lecture, a magical performance and a musical program. It will be a day to look forward to next year.

Geddes Urges Unity With U.S. In Trade

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Minneapolis, November 4.—Speaking at a luncheon given by the local Chamber of Commerce, Sir Auckland Geddes (British Ambassador) said America and Britain must avoid a national trade competition organised by their Governments and supported by political action. He predicted that if either nation began organising areas to its own exclusive economic advantage, there would inevitably come a clash of interests that would strain the friendly relations between the two countries.

Slavery In Hongkong Denied By Secretary

(Reuter's Service)

London, Nov. 4.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Sir A. W. Yeo and Mr. Thomas Myers, Colonel Amery, Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies, stated that slavery did not exist in Hongkong or in any other British Colony.

The Colony's law did not recognise the custom, by which girls were transferred for payment from parents and guardians to another household, usually for purposes of domestic purposes, as conferring any right or title on the employer against the girl. There was no evidence that these girls were frequently ill treated and in that event they were protected by the law in the same way as children, living with their parents.

The Secretary of State considered that the right course was to aim at gradual reform, where necessary, in co-operation with enlightened and humane Chinese in which connection he suggested that the Governor should persuade prominent Chinese to form a Society for the protection and improvement of the condition of these girl domestics, which arrangement, Colonel Amery considered preferable to a system of compulsory registration, which the Colony's officers considered impracticable.

Gets Three Months For Robbing Sailor

Seeing a coolie sorting over a sheaf of documents in a ricsha on Range Road Saturday night, a Chinese Police Constable stopped the vehicle to investigate. Whereupon the coolie sprang to the ground and fled into Chapel, where he was collared by the Chapel police. He was found to be in possession of a pocket book containing $30 in United States currency, a draft for G. $50 and passports and papers bearing the name of E. L. Healy, an American sailor.

It would appear from Mr. Healy's testimony that he had been drinking Saturday night and, being still athirst, was on his way from one bar to another when he fell asleep in the ricsha. When he awoke, he said, the pocketbook was gone.

The coolie stated that he had found the wallet on the seat of a vacant ricsha. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment.

ALLIES AGREE ON REPARATIONS

British Views On Terms Same As French In Important Details

(Rerter's Service)

Paris, November 6.—Lord Derby, the British Ambassador, returned to Paris last night from England whither he had gone to attend his son's marriage. The Ambassador at once communicated to M. Philippe Berthelot, Secretary General for Foreign Affairs, the British Government's reply regarding the question of German reparations. His Excellency will officially hand the reply to M. Georges Leygues, President of the Council, today.

It is semi-officially stated that, following the recent exchange of Notes between the British and French Governments, the French proposals on the subject of reparations are likely to be adopted.

EXPERTS TO CONFER

These are: (1) That a conference of experts selected from among the members of the Reparations Commission shall meet in Brussels and report on the demands at present in question; (2) Next, the Allied Finance Ministers will meet at Geneva where they will hear the German side and likewise draw up a report on the position; (3) The Reparations Commission, in conformity with the Treaty terms, will then fix the total amount of Germany's obligations, on the basis of the Brussels and Geneva reports and of the statements of claims put in by the Allied Governments direct; (4) Lastly, the Allied Premiers, meeting in Supreme Council, will define the penalties to be exacted from Germany in the event of non-execution of her obligations.

BRITISH REPLY

It is understood that the British reply, mentioned above, entirely endorses the French scheme, save on a few points of detail. This rallying of the British Government to the French view is regarded in Paris as marking an appreciable step forward in the close agreement between the two Governments.
